

Charlotte Abbotts and Rachael Ashstead The Meteorology Office

'There's more to the Met Office than you might think'

Charlotte graduated from Exeter University in 2011 with a degree in Physics and Rachael from Sheffield University with a degree in Geography along with an MSc in Meteorology and Applied Climatology from the University of Birmingham.

After graduation, a passion for the weather led them to complete training at the Met Office. They currently work at MOD Boscombe Down where they forecast the weather for military aviation.

Rachel and Charlotte plan to outline their work including some activities.
