A2 POLITICS
US GOVERNMENT & POLITICS
2015-16
A2 Unit F853: Contemporary US Government and Politics

Candidates should build on their working knowledge of the concepts and ideologies introduced at AS and also be aware of key and current developments. The study of US government and politics in practice should be taught against a background of the ways in which government and politics works in theory.

In this unit, candidates are expected to develop knowledge and understanding of the contemporary government and politics of the United States of America. They should develop knowledge and understanding of the constitutional arrangements and principles, the legislature, the executive and judiciary of the federal government, as well as issues concerning representation and participation. Candidates should be aware of all major political developments in the United States over the previous decade.

Elections, presidential and congressional

- Political parties
- Pressure groups
- The constitution
- Congress
- The presidency
- The Supreme Court
- Civil rights and liberties

This is a 2 hour paper.

The paper includes one mandatory question which can be on any topic (divided into part (a) out of 10 marks and part (b) out of 15 marks.

There is then a choice of seven essay questions, worth 25 marks each, of which you have to answer any three.
3.5 A2 Unit F855: US Government and Politics

In this Synoptic unit candidates are expected to draw together the knowledge, understanding and skills learned in different parts of the Advanced GCE course, and make appropriate connections between the areas studied. For this unit, candidates should be able to compare and contrast features of British and American politics and, where relevant, make connections to and comparisons with the political system of the European Union. It is essential that candidates can view political institutions and practices in perspective.

It is expected that candidates will supplement their formal study of politics and government by being alert to the course of events in the world of politics and following them in the available media.

In the assessment of this unit, candidates are encouraged to make appropriate references to political systems, processes and events beyond the UK, US and European Union, and insofar as these are relevant and illuminating, they will be rewarded.

Elections
Political parties and pressure groups
Civil rights and liberties
Constitutions
Legislatures
Executives
Judiciaries

This is a 2 hour paper.

There is then a choice of seven essay questions, worth 50 marks each, of which you have to answer any two.
ESSENTIAL RESOURCES

Students are still expected to follow the news, usually by reading a serious newspaper most days of the week (= Times, Telegraph, Guardian or Independent); these are all available online and both schools have subscriber access. You should also watch or listen to a reputable news programme regularly, e.g. Newsnight, Channel 4 News, Radio 4’s Today, PM, etc. Websites such as BBC News are highly recommended – bookmark as favourites on your phone. Remember that the second A2 paper requires you to compare the UK and US political systems, so you need to keep up with British politics as well as American affairs.

The Department also maintains a regularly updated webpage on the BWS website - http://www.bws-school.org.uk/Curriculum-Exams/Politics/resources/ where links to other useful news sources can be found, and articles and documents of particular relevance to our topics are frequently posted. Please bookmark this and check it at least weekly, as well using resources on it when asked. Many websites such as The Huffington Post and the The New York Times have email update services or RSS feeds, which are well worth signing up to. There will be periodic current affairs tests!

Students should also read The Economist, which has an excellent US section as well as valuable British coverage. It offers discounted student subscriptions, but each week’s edition can also be read free online. Its Democracy in America blog is also excellent.

The Politics Department subscribes to Politics Review, a journal written for A level students. The journal is published four times a year and students are encouraged to read it, either in the Politics Office or online. You will also be set articles to read and note from the online archive, which can accessed from the web link below:
http://magazinesonline.philipallan.co.uk/

Username: pa@bws.wilts.sch.uk Password: password

From the home page, click on the Magazine Archive button, scroll down to find and click on the Politics Review box.

To find the issue of Politics Review you need use the drop down menus to select the Volume and Issue required – Volume Number covers four issues in an academic Year: 1990-91 = Volume 1; 2014-15 = Volume 24

Then choose the issue you want from within the Year: September, November, February or April.

<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Thorough and accurate knowledge and clear and detailed understanding of relevant concepts, ideas and political systems. Where appropriate candidates will provide convincing comparisons between them.</td>
<td>High level of skill in the interpretation, analysis and evaluation of relevant political information (including, where appropriate, the identification of parallels, connections, similarities and differences with other political systems including the EU). Ability to recognise bias and faulty argument and to reason effectively towards an individual and informed conclusion.</td>
<td>Ability to distinguish relevant and important factors correctly and integrate these into a balanced, well-focused argument. Ability to communicate this clearly and logically in fluent coherent style containing few, if any, errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Good knowledge and understanding of relevant concepts, ideas and political systems. Where appropriate candidates will provide good comparisons between them.</td>
<td>Good level of skill in the interpretation, analysis and evaluation of the relevant political information (including, where appropriate, the identification of parallels, connections, similarities and differences with other political systems including the EU). Some attempt to recognise bias and faulty argument and to reason sensibly towards a sound conclusion.</td>
<td>Ability to identify the most important factors and present a relevant argument legibly and clearly if, at times, lacking incisiveness. There may be occasional errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Limited knowledge and understanding of relevant concepts, ideas and political systems. Limited awareness of standard points of comparison.</td>
<td>Limited level of skill in the interpretation, analysis and evaluation of the relevant political information (including, where appropriate, the identification of parallels, connections, similarities and differences with other political systems including the EU). Limited attempt to explain a few of the more obvious points central to the question and to recognise and describe some differing viewpoints. Reasoning may be incomplete and, while opinions may be offered, they are unlikely to be supported by argument.</td>
<td>Limited attempt to distinguish relevant material, which is assembled into a limited argument with some sense of order and legibility. There may be some errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Basic and generalised knowledge and understanding of relevant concepts, ideas and political systems. Such knowledge and understanding will be incomplete and/or of tenuous relevance and may contain significant errors. Basic awareness of standard points of comparison.</td>
<td>Basic skill in the interpretation, analysis and evaluation of some of the relevant political information (including, where appropriate, the identification of parallels, connections, similarities and differences with other political systems including the EU). Basic attempt to explain the simpler points central to the question and it is likely that only one viewpoint will be recognised. There will be little evidence of reasoning.</td>
<td>An attempt is made to shape an argument at a basic level, which lacks coherence, legibility and direction, and is unselective. Contains intrusive errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling.</td>
