Dear Parents/Guardians

As part of my own continued professional development I have been researching blogs and published articles on revision strategies. These strategies have been communicated to Yr11 students and Yr13 Chemists via email over the previous few weeks. I hope that the boys have found these tips useful. Ultimately what we want is for the boys to use their revision time effectively and to adopt an evidence based approach which makes best use of their time. The emails discuss a range of approaches and strategies in addition to giving advice on how to effectively plan a revision programme.

We recognise that parents have a really important role to play in supporting their sons in the lead up to exams and I have now saved the emails on the website so that all students and parents can read the tips and advice that have been circulated to date. The page is here and the link is just under the staff names entitled 'revision tips': <http://www.bws-school.org.uk/Curriculum-Exams/Science/> As more emails are sent the document will be updated.

Kind regards

Dr Emma Baker
